

MARKET IS INACTIVE

Industrial Stocks Surrounded by General Interest.

STEEL PRICES ARE ADVANCED

Orders for More Than 100,000 Tons of Rail Placed Since Monday, and Many Larger Deals Are Still Pending—Big Sales of Copper Metal Made at New High Record.

New York, May 6.—Relative dullness attended the dealings to-day in the railroad shares in the stock market, but the striking characteristic of business was an outburst of broad and general interest in the industrial stocks.

Pessimists and others unfriendly to the current strength of the stock market maintained that this diversion of interest was of manipulative sort, and intended to facilitate liquidation elsewhere, but people in banking circles, and other quarters having access to trustworthy information regarding actual improvement in the business that is taking place, were not slow in declaring it their opinion that the advance to-day in the special quarters of the market was justified. The divergence of view thus exhibited has been shown throughout the present year.

General Business Outlook.

A large number of professional observers of the market and of people generally, who have allowed their judgment regarding business conditions to be colored by memories of the past, rather than by a study of facts regarding the situation at the present, have scouted for months back the idea that any considerable improvement in business was going on in the country, or, if so, it was occurring in only an immaterial degree; and they have had this much to back them up in their position that there were numerous lines of business in which trade was undeniably dull.

What these hostile critics of the stock market have failed to recognize is that in other lines business was steadily picking up, and that taken as a whole the country's industrial and commercial life was really more active than it has been in any preceding year with the single exception of the "boom" period of 1907.

The financial district in the mass appeared to be waking up to-day to the existence of the condition of affairs, to which point was given in the statement of the president of the American Woolen Company that the company's business was never as large as at the present time, and that the expansion of the management was for a business in the present year of $30,000,000 more than the largest year in the company's history.

Such a statement is not, of course, typical in a greater degree than it is of monthly imagination and some hints of this have been afforded in the weekly record of the increases in railroad earnings and in the growth of bank exchanges.

Iron and Steel Prices.

Further evidences were again afforded to-day of the recovery making in the iron and steel industry. Advances in West prices for steel products announced during business hours and in the course of the last few days now include light steel rails, structural materials, steel bars, and plates, and it is admitted that the long drawn out controversy as to the prices of heavy standard steel rails has been settled in favor of the rail-producing corporations.

Orders for more than 100,000 tons of rails of this class have been placed since Monday, and it seems to be a fact that orders for over 200,000 tons more are pending. Furthermore, large sales of copper metal were made to-day at a new high record price on the present upward movement. It was, therefore, only natural to-day that buying of stocks should directly concern itself with industrial shares.
